This year's design is pretty simple. It's a bit more sleek and structured than last year and is the perfect contrast to the natural table setting I've styled using stoneware, neutral linen and dark green. For this year's Christmas table, I used my new favourite stone plates from Aura Home, pudding and cherry dishes from Bridget Bodenham, a natural linen tablecloth from West Elm, homemade silver birch candle holders with high white candles, some lush dark green leaves (a nice gift from my aunt) and my new Christmas cards (download link at the bottom of the post). Simple, effective and beautiful. On Christmas Eve last year my husband Mike put together these simple Silver Birch candle holders that you see featured in the table setting photos above. To make your own just cut a Silver Birch branch (we were lucky enough to have a few old branches lying around) in 5-8 cm high then using a spade drill bit make a candle sized hole (about 11/2 cm wide and deep) in the middle of the branch, then place instead end of the candle in the hole. Easily! A beautiful natural candle holder. These would also be the perfect gift for your guests to take home. Table and gift decorations don't have to be expensive. Sometimes it just takes a little bit of ingenuity and know-how to create that fantastic look on a budget. Also if you haven't already, make sure you check out my other Christmas messages, especially my Christmas Music Playlist, my delicious Quick & Healthy Christmas Pudding (featured in today's post), and last year's Free Christmas Gift Tags Enjoy the free tags and if I don't speak to you for it, have the most wonderful and blessed Christmas, collect, celebrate and party with your loved ones! Enjoy this precious time PS: Make sure you tag me on social media when you upload photos.
